Dozens of voices celebrate—in essays, stories, plays, poetry, songs, and art—the Franco-American experience in Maine. They explore subjects as diverse as Quebec-Maine-Acadia frontier history, immigrant drama, work, genealogy, women, discrimination, community affairs, religion, archeology, politics, literature, language, and humor. The voices, themselves, are equally diverse, including Normand Beaupré, Pat LaMarche, Michael Michaud, Ross and Judy Paradis, Susann Pelletier, John Martin, Béatrice Craig, Michael Parent, Linda Pervier, Yvon Labbé, Céleste DeRoche, Alaric Faulkner, Paul Paré, Ray Levasseur, Yves Frenette, Stewart Doty, the Reverend Clément Thibodeau, Rhea Côté Robbins, Greg Chabot, Bob Chénard, Denis Ledoux, Jean-Paul Poulain, Josée Vachon, and many others. This is a rich resource and an engaging read, one that will resonate with many.
